Session 14: Acceptance and Commitment Therapy for Children with Autism and Emotional Challenges, with Dr. Mark Dixon, BCBA-D

Dear fellow Behavior Analyst,

Have you been looking for ways to help kids with ASD or other emotional challenges become more flexible and less beholden to negative private events? Would you like to help these kiddos discover what they truly care about in life, and then assist them in developing new repertoires that are aligned with their values?

If the answer is yes to these questions, then please consider checking out Session 14 of The Behavioral Observations Podcast. In this episode, I interview Dr. Mark Dixon, and we spend the majority of the hour discussing his curriculum, "Acceptance and Commitment Therapy for Children with Autism and Emotional Challenges."

If you choose to purchase a Continuing Education credit for listening to this episode, you can earn 1 Type 2 C.E. The objectives for this C.E. event are as follows:

Objectives of this training:

1. The learner will be able to describe the six ACT processes.
2. The learner will be able to describe one recommendation for learning the ACT curriculum.
3. The learner will be able to describe one recommendation for teaching the ACT curriculum.
